Gr 2-4-This romp through medieval times is an easy selection for kids interested in the time period. Each two-page chapter is packed with a variety of images and features that accompany the main text: photos, cartoons, extra fact boxes in the shape of shields, LEGO figures that carry on an amusing but informative side plot, labels, captions, and many activity-based "Build It" suggestions that match the chapter topic. Brief descriptions of legendary folks, such as King Arthur, Saint George, Edward the Black Prince, El Cid, and Roland the Jester, are also included. Students hungry for facts about knights and castles won't be disappointed. Those with no prior knowledge on this subject will likely be drawn in, too, thanks to the popularity of the franchise and the overall bright design. VERDICT For libraries using learning stations or ones with fully launched maker spaces, this book is ideal for encouraging exploration and creativity.-Gloria Koster, West School, New Canaan, CT

My son (6 years old) rented this book at his school's library and begged me to buy it so I ordered this one and he loves it. its not really easy bedtime story reading but I'll read him a few pages at a time. Once he is able to read on his own it will be more enjoyable for him i think.

Beautifully illustrated with just the right amount of info for a basic introduction to knight and castles for elementary age kids - perfect if they love legos too!

This is a really fun Lego book filled with fun facts about knights and castles. Really great buy! My 6 year old loves it!

Excellent Product. A+++++++

Nice

Great book, packed with info and the lego illustrations make it fun - but watch the grade level on here (they suggest grade 2-4) - my Kindergartner received this because he is lego obsessed and thinks castles are the coolest thing ever, and unfortunately, he's really just way too young for this.

Great little book. My 8 yrs old loves it. I am using this book while I am teaching my son about the middle ages. There are nice facts thrown in here also that has captivated my son's interest. Leave it to Legos to make school fun

This is a fun book to read; it is packed with facts. I thought it was expensive. But, it takes us 20-30 minutes to really get through it. It's worth the cost.
