very cute dog story. Dog lovers will appreciate this and also anyone who has rescued a dog. I did and they really do appreciate a forever home after having a bad first home or no home. They truly only want to love and be loved. Life is so much sweeter when you have a dog.

I chose a 5 star because the story appealed to my sense of ownership. I have, always had pets both cats and dogs. At one time I had, 5 dogs and 2 cats. They all got, along together our rather small house. everyone of then was a rescue in one way or, another One little girl, a ten and white German Shepard was found standing in the middle of the road in a bad thunderstorm. I was lucky to have Arnold station wagon at the time Another woman stopped to help me pick her. up and put her in my car. She had been very abused and, was terrified. It took months of love, and tenderness get my Pretty Girl out of the corner. I have photos of her finally Learning to play. It was, worth it.

I'm writing this review for the entire series. Three good short stories about dogs who set off to find their "forever home". They were picked up by a shelter called second chances where they had everything a dog could ever want: food, toys, soft beds, big yard; well, almost all, except a human they could really love and who will love them back. They all found their forever homes, and one cute thing that stood out for me is how their forever owners would know to name them their real names. I hope we named our Yoko right (his ears perk up when we call him). Reading all these dog stories lately always had me seeking him out for a hug. Great writing in the dogs' voices. Cute, heartwarming stories for dog lovers.

This is a story told by a dog who is unhappy at her home where she is neglected and mistreated. She and some of her animal friends go in search of a forever home where they will be happy. A good book for dog lovers.

Nice story but nothing very memorable about. Just a feel good book.

I love to read upbeat dog stories. There are so many dogs that don't have a happy ending that we need to be reminded a great many of them do.

A great dog story!

Great read
