YOU GUYS!!! I am so thrilled about journal, Q&A a Day for Grandparents: A 3-year journal of memories and mementos. I have had the other Q&A journals on my wish list for the last several years just waiting for the right time to purchase them (my children to be old enough, etc.) When I saw this journal up for review, I knew that it would be great for my mom. My mom and I have talked in the last nearly 11 years since my grandmother passed away that we wish we had more of the things she said written down. I knew that this Q&A journal would be a perfect way for my mom to pass things down to my own children. First of all, this journal is beautiful! It's sturdy and well-made, too. I obviously haven't filled out the book because that's not my job. However, I have looked through at the questions. The questions are such a good variety of more serious with the less serious and even humorous. You can see several of the pages to preview here. I cannot wait to pass this journal along to my mom for her to start at the beginning of the year to keep up with it. I also think I'll order a second one for my younger son. That way each of them will have a separate one to keep for years to come.**I Received this book from Blogging For Books.**

I pre-ordered this and was so excited to have a Christmas gift for my hard to buy for Mom. Upon arrival I immediately returned it though. I had thought the book was going to be more geared toward my Mom recording moments/memories of her life. Instead it is written for a grandparent to record memories of their grandchild (first word, first food, etc). It is also unfortunately geared towards just one grandchild. My Mom has 8 grandkids, and this book just wouldn't work.
