Customer Reviews

So, I'm American and living in Moscow, Russia. I have been here for five months and came not speaking a word of Russian. Russia is a very anglo-unfriendly place, i.e. not many people speak English and almost no one other than at high end shops and galleries speaks English when doing the most basic of shopping. I took Russian courses in the past, but it never stuck. I've been paying 2,000 rubles per week for a Russian tutor but five minutes after I learn words with her, they're gone. Forgotten. Russian has many, many cognates with English, but the words that aren't cognates are so different from western languages retention can be very difficult--and most the basic words fall into this category. I'm a firm believer in hypnotherapy to effect change in thoughts and behaviors, so I looked for a hypnotherapist here in Moscow that speaks English that could assist with reprogramming my brain to retain Russian. I found no one. So, I decided to search for an MP3 or CD in order to self-hypnotize. I found this product on the Apple iTunes store. I've used it three times so far. It recommends doing it 21 times, so I still have a ways to go. Not only am I retaining words at an unbelievable pace, I am having less difficulty interpreting Russian when it's spoken to me. I am also remembering words that I learned months ago, prior to hypnotherapy, that I forgot. I highly recommend this product--in combination with a good Russian book and a native speaking tutor. I don't see why you can't reach near fluency within about a year if you routinely do the hypnosis and spend a decent amount of time studying, listening, etc. I recommend this product for individuals living in Russia and wanting to learn Russian, and students who are studying Russian in school. Combined with a secondary hypnotherapy MP3 to increase motivation to study, you'll do quite well with this product. (I also suffer from ADHD so I'm always concerned that I won't be able to be hypnotized. It's not a problem with this product, and each time I use it I go into a deeper and deeper trance, netting greater and greater results.)
