New Zealand Travellers Road Atlas

Synopsis

New Zealand Travellers Road Atlas is spiral-bound, handy-sized road atlas, with enlargements for environs of main towns, street plans of town centers, an index of localities, roads/tracks and streets, plus information driving regulations. The main section of the atlas is at 1:500,000 with detailed presentation of the road network from motorways to 4WD tracks. Railway lines, ferry routes, local airfields and airstrips are marked. National Parks and protected areas are highlighted, and symbols mark places of interest, a very wide range of sport and recreational facilities, wine growing areas, hot springs and thermal areas, campsites and motorhome/caravan parks, etc. Selected walking tracks are also shown, including the New Zealand Walkway and the Te Araroa Walkway. No geographical coordinates are provided. More detailed mapping at scales between 1:350,000 and 1:175,000, conveniently summarized on an overview map of the whole country, covers Northland and Auckland area, Waikato and Bay of Plenty, Hawkes Bay - Manawatu - Wellington area, Nelson - Marlborough area, and Christchurch - Otago - Southland area. Street plans are provided for over 30 town centers, including all main cities, showing one-way streets, parking facilities, public toilets and places of interest. A 43-page index has separate lists of cities/towns/localities and rural features (mountain and passes, coastal and water features, ski fields/tracks/parks/forests) plus road and street names on the enlargements and street plans. The atlas also includes a list of over 100 of the country's main places of interest, each with a brief description and cross-referenced to the road maps, a list of the visitor centers, a section on road safety and traffic signs, and a distance table.

I do not quite like the map format, but if you're using paper maps as a main or backup for travel, this sturdy (should be highly water and food resistant) publication is nearly indispensable, both for locating sites of interest in the countryside and for details in tourist-intensive and urban areas. The close-in map for the Bay of Islands area provides the road names that make navigation easier; same with western metro Auckland, where you can get lost in the suburban road net trying to find Piha beach. I also found it reliable in the Christchurch area. The numerous symbols do require occasional checking of the key page. Maps such as the AA North and South Island maps are helpful for getting the bigger picture. The photo, of a map that almost requires a magnifying glass, show how to get to some of the best coastal scenery.

We are in New Zealand now and the Atlas has made driving around the country much easier than it would have been without it. We love it!

Traveling? Take this with you! Numerous times the rental's GPS system would lead us astray and this brought us back. Very aesthetically yet informative street maps and guidance Easy to find places, streets and cities Great for pen and Paper RPG's set in New Zealand as well. I buy this brand of road atlas before every foreign trip. This is a wonderful backup to your GPS. Don't get lost!

This is a great, detailed atlas perfect for road tripping through both islands of New Zealand. I loved all the detailed maps and the scenic lookout indicators.

Arrived on schedule and did help us out a few times in our month long vacation across New Zealand.
