Debbie and Keri met as parents volunteering in their childrenâ ™s kindergarten classroom in Basking Ridge, NJ. Together they discovered their mutual love of writing and teaching children. They coached local kids in community programs and later expanded on their love of baseball by volunteering for a charity called Pitch in for Baseball. This love to help others was inspired by Moldovanâ ™s son Tyler. In lieu of gifts for his ninth birthday, he asked friends to bring used or new baseball equipment. Those items were donated to Pitch in for Baseball. Tyler has an ongoing collection drive and has donated thousands of pieces of equipment to this charity over the past nine years. This was the inspiration for the story and both Moldovan and Conkling support this wonderful organization.

I read this book and thought it was really good. The writer certainly put in a decent effort. I purchased this book with the understanding that it was a Christian book. While I do believe it to have Christian-based values, there is no mention of God or Jesus Christ, and Bible verses are not included. With that, I find the contents of this book to be of interest for baseball lovers of all religions. Both Christians and non-Christians alike will come to enjoy this book. It's a fun read.

My Grandson loved it! Very nice story line! Very appropriate for his age!

This is a book you will read again and again, and hand down to your children's children. A timeless story of kids sharing, just having fun, and learning the gift of giving.
